

The Bachelor of Arts in Development Studies and Philosophy offers a unique and comprehensive combination of philosophical grounding for the issues of human development.

THE COURSE

The Bachelor of Arts in Development Studies and Philosophy offers a unique and comprehensive combination of philosophical grounding for the issues of human development. It prepares graduates to help solve problems of contemporary society. Thus, graduates will be capable of offering not only technical skills but also the intellectual capacities to forge ideas and implement them.

The degree prepares graduates to work in a demanding and diverse environment in which a deep appreciation of development and life issues is required in combination with analytical skills and a flexibility to respond to the issues of the day in a robust way. It prepares the graduates to work and make informed life choices in an interdisciplinary environment and exercise the requisite decision making and leadership skills.

CAREERS
